

A Redfoot Rehomer

This was Scarlett when I collected her, I had no idea what to expect, I knew she was about 8yrs old and she had been living with an elderly gentlemen.

I nearly cried when I saw her, but it was not the previous owners fault, he didn't know any better. As you can see she was so dry, she had never been bathed, had no access to UV, she was also running free around his flat, with a rabbit! What worried me most was that she had been fed with standard rabbit food, with the occasional apple!

When I first got her home, I bathed her, and fed her this is her first meal, she loved her Mushrooms, after she worked out how to bite them!

Her shell is quite deformed due to bad diet and husbandry.

Since owning her, she has started to show me her personality; she's a stubborn little rascal! She will not do something unless she wants to! She is also so gentle, she loves being tickled and scratched on her head! She has had daily baths and her skin is so much better. She has eaten daily fresh weeds, curly kale, fruit, and her absolute favourites, mushrooms!

She has brought such joy to my life, I'm so happy to have her, and I'm so happy that she now has the life she deserves, and hopefully in time her shell will look less deformed. However she ends up looking, she has found a forever loving home with me!
